The Prison Poster Project (PPP) is a collective of artists and activists working on both sides of the prison walls across the U.S. It is embarking on a mini-tour that will culminate at the Critical Resistance 10 Year Anniversary Conference. Its mission is to expose the prison industrial complex's effects on our diverse communities and to challenge the current reliance on prisons as a solution to social problems. The outside team has worked with incarcerated artists to create a teaching tool for prison activists, educators, incarcerated people, and community leaders. Come learn more about the many issues surrounding the prison industrial complex and consider using the Prison Poster Project to raise awareness in the Cleveland area!
